- Attendance will be recorded through the biometric / attendance system.
- Employees must ensure:
 - One IN punch at arrival
 - One OUT punch at departure
- Any employee stepping out of the office premises during working hours for personal reasons must punch OUT on the biometric system and punch IN immediately upon return.
- Failure to punch OUT while stepping outside the office premises will be treated as a violation of attendance rules and may result in disciplinary action, irrespective of whether the employee punches IN later.
- Time spent outside the office premises without punching out will be treated as unauthorised absence for that duration.
- Missing or incorrect punches (including break punches) must be regularised within 24 hours with manager approval. Failure to regularise missing punches may result in attendance action.

2. Attendance Compliance Categories

Attendance will be evaluated based on the following criteria:

A. Working Hour Shortfall

- If an employee completes less than 8 working hours in a day, it will be treated as a shortfall.
- Shortfall hours will be accumulated on a monthly basis.

Monthly Shortfall Adjustment:

- Up to 3 hours: Ignored

- Check-out Time - Before 5:00 PM – half (½) day leave

There is no separate late-coming penalty as long as the employee completes 8 working hours, and the Core working hours are fully met.

3. Overlapping Violations (Important Rule)

- If both a working-hour shortfall and a core hours violation occur on the same day, only one attendance action will be applied.
- In such cases, the more severe violation (core hours violation) will prevail.
- Shortfall hours will not be accumulated for that day.

4. Unauthorised Absence (During Working Hours)

- Unauthorised absence refers to any instance where an employee:
 - Leaves the office premises during working hours without punching OUT on the biometric system, or
 - Remains absent without prior approval or valid intimation, or
 - Fails to punch IN upon returning after stepping out.

Treatment of Unauthorised Absence:

- The duration of unauthorised absence will be deducted from the employee's working hours for that day.
- If the resulting working hours fall below 8 hours, the day will be treated as a working-hour shortfall.
- If the unauthorised absence overlaps with core working hours (10:00 AM – 5:00 PM), it will be treated as a core hours violation.

Repeated Instances:

- Repeated unauthorised absence may lead to:
 - Leave deduction
 - Written warning
 - Disciplinary action as per company policy

5. Managerial Discretion & Responsibility

- Reporting managers are responsible for:

The company will provide a 3-day food and accommodation to all such employees to find and locate a place suitable according to their requirements.

BYOD POLICY

ASSET PROVISION AND MANAGEMENT POLICY

This policy defines the employees entitled to receive company assets. It frames out all the rules regarding an asset provided to an employee, its management, and the process to be followed during the time of handing over the asset.

Case 1

If an employee is hired for a role that requires him/her to make calls on a regular basis, the company may provide assets which may or may not be limited to technological assets and their accessories (a mobile phone, a Tablet, a SIM card), Identity cards, etc. required to do the job. The company may provide a laptop or desktop for official use based on role requirements.

Employees are responsible for the safe use, care, and custody of such assets. These assets are strictly to be used for official work and not to be utilized for personal use.

The employees can mutually coordinate and decide which Saturday will be taken off by whom as no two members of the same department can take an off on the same Saturday.

Employees will be eligible to avail the one Saturday off per month benefit only after completing six months of service with the company.

The employees are to first take approval from their manager and then inform HR about the same.

Kindly note that depending on the workload and other unforeseen conditions, the Manager may not approve the requested leave. The employee can then apply for a leave for the next Saturday.

Apart from the above-mentioned leaves any other absence from the work is considered unauthorized and unapproved and will be treated as misconduct.

How to apply for a leave of absence

All leave requests must be applied through the HRMS portal. A leave request will be considered valid only upon manager approval in the system. It is the employee's responsibility to ensure that the leave request is approved. Leave requests that remain unapproved will be treated as invalid and void.

For employees whose bills and sheets will be duly submitted, their reimbursement would be processed and at the time of salary credit, the employees will receive the reimbursement amount.

COMPENSATION STRUCTURE

BASE PAY

It is the fixed component of the compensation and includes:

Basic Salary + House Rent Allowance (HRA) + Dearness Allowance (DA)

The decision regarding the Basic Salary of an employee would be totally based upon his/her knowledge, skills, and the number of years of experience he/she holds.

The HRA would be provided at a fixed 30% of the basic salary.

The DA would be provided at 10% of the basic salary.

It will be revised and renewed every year based on government policies.

The percentage of HRA & DA is subject to change at any point in time without prior notice.*

VARIABLE PAY

It is the incentive component provided to selected employees. Any Special Allowances, Travel Allowances, and Bonuses provided to an employee are considered as the variable component of the salary.

OTHERS

This includes Employee Provident Fund (EPF) and Employee State Insurance (ESI) schemes that form a part of an employee's CTC. All permanent employees are eligible for these benefits. A percentage of the basic or the gross salary are contributed from both the employer and employee's side which is already added in an employee's CTC.

EPF Structure

Employer	Employee
13% of the basic salary	12% of the basic salary

- Employees with a basic salary of less than 15k will have a compulsory PF deduction.
- Employees with a basic salary of more than 15k will have the option to choose whether to apply for PF or not.

ESI Structure

Employer	Employee
3.25% of gross salary	0.75% of gross salary

- Employees with a gross salary of less than 21k will be eligible for an ESI deduction.
- Employees with a gross salary of more than 21k will not be eligible for ESI deduction.

Tax Deducted at Source (TDS)

- Employees with a CTC of 7 LPA and above will have a compulsory Tax deduction.
- The tax so deducted will be based on the tax slabs defined by the government.
- If any employee has invested or applied for any tax benefits schemes, s/he can submit all related documents to the company based on which the tax will be deducted accordingly.

Advance Salary Clause

Sometimes, an employee due to various reasons may request the company to pay the salary in advance. The company may grant the request if:

Eligibility: the employee has served at least 1 year with the company

Amount up to 1 month's salary shall be granted.

INCREMENT POLICY

All full-time employees are entitled to yearly increments. There are 4 slabs upon which the increment of all employees will be based.

Increment Slabs
8%
10%
12%
15%

These slabs would change every year according to the Market Dynamics and an employee's overall performance.

The Performance of each and every employee will be evaluated based on the feedback provided by 3 key people who will influence an employee's increment:

- i) An employee's immediate Manager - holds 50% influence
- ii) HR - holds a 30% influence
- iii) Higher Management - holds 20% influence

The Manager and the HR will have to fill out a feedback form for each employee and based on this feedback, the yearly increment of an employee will be decided and carried out.

All employees would be notified about whom to report to and who their Manager would be.*

Increment Cycle

The Increment cycle is divided into 2 parts:

- 1). May – the salary for which will be credited in the month of June
- 2). October - the salary for which will be credited in the month of November

Increment cycle for the Sales Department shall take place only in the month of October.

The increment of an employee will be based upon the cycle which falls near the joining month of an employee or when an employee is shifted from Part-time/Internship to a full-time employee.

For example: if an employee joins Schoollog in the month of January, his increment would be made in the month of May next year.

Increment Eligibility Policy

To be eligible for a salary increment in the scheduled cycle (May or October), an employee must have completed 12 months of continuous service by May 1st or October 1st, respectively.

If an employee has not completed 12 months of service by the cut-off date, they will be considered for an increment in the next applicable cycle following the completion of one year.

If an employee completes 12 months of service before the company's scheduled increment cycle (i.e., May or October), the applicable increment will be accumulated and credited within 2 months following the increment cycle. This provision will apply only for the first year of service to ensure alignment with the company-wide increment cycle. From the second year onward, all increments will be processed strictly during the standard increment cycles of May or October, based on company review timelines and performance evaluations.

If any employee starts with a variable pay during the time of her/his increment, then there'll be no accumulation of the same and the variable component shall only begin from the month it is intimated to the employees.

Salary Revision-Based Increment Clause

If an employee joins the organization at a fixed salary and subsequently receives a salary revision (as discussed or agreed upon during hiring) within the first 3 to 6 months of employment, the date of such revision shall be treated as the effective date for future increment eligibility.

For example, if an employee joins in January at a fixed salary (X), and the salary is revised to (Y) in March, the one-year service period for the next increment will be calculated from March. Accordingly, based on the company's standard increment cycle (May/October), the employee will be eligible for an increment in the following eligible cycle after completing 12 months from the revision date (i.e., in the next year's May cycle).

Resignation after Increment

If any employee resigns from the organization within 2 months of his/her increment, the employer shall not be liable to pay the incremented salary during the employees' Notice Period.

If one incremented salary has already been credited to the employees' salary account and the employee resigns afterwards, his/her salary for the next month would be balanced according to the salary before increment.

4.2. Performance Review Meeting

A performance review meeting will be held at the end of the review period. This meeting shall be led by the Head of the Department. However, depending upon various case scenarios, the Manager, HR, etc will be present. The potential outcomes are:

4.2.1. Satisfactory improvement –

Potential Outcome: Where the interviewer assesses that the employee has achieved the required standards, no further action will be taken. This results in PIP Clearance.

Action: In this case, the employee shall still be under observation for the next 3 months. Please note: The employee shall not be eligible for a promotion/appraisal for the next 6 months after the date of his/her PIP Clearance.

4.2.2. Partial improvement –

Potential Outcome: Where the interviewer assesses that significant improvement has been achieved and the required standard is likely to be achieved shortly, the review period may be extended. The manager should consider the additional support and training that can be provided to help the employee reach the required standard and can extend and revise the PIP for a short period. This extended period must not exceed 4 weeks.

Action: The extension of PIP would be confirmed in writing and the terms of the further review period shall be outlined and a further performance review meeting date must be set.

4.2.3. Insufficient or no improvement –

Action: The HR should proceed towards the separation of the employee from the organization. Salary and Experience Letter shall be released before 10th of the upcoming month. HR will inform the employee of the separation from the organization, which will be effective with immediate effect. The procedure will be like a general separation, wherein the employee will be receiving both the Relieving and the Experience letter. Also, the FnF will be processed before the 10th of the upcoming month.

EXIT POLICY

The Exit Policy outlines all activities that will take place at the time when an employee either resigns from the company or is terminated on due grounds by the company.

Scope of the Policy

This policy gives a detailed outlook on the separation process followed by the company. It gives an insight into the release formalities, the notice period required to be served, exit interview procedures, etc.

This policy extends to all working employees of the company unless otherwise specified.

Resignation

It is a process where the employee initiates to terminate the employment contract with the company. Any employee leaving the company should submit a letter of resignation (via email/letter) to their immediate supervisor copied to HR.

HR along with the Reporting Manager/Head of Department of the employee should interact with the resignee to understand the reason. Post this discussion, with mutual consent if:

1. the resignee chooses to stay back, s/he shall withdraw her/his resignation in writing (via email/letter)
2. the resignee chooses to continue with the decision to resign, acknowledgement of the resignation letter in the form of a Resignation Acceptance letter will be issued to the employee and maintained by HR.

Dismissal

It is the process wherein the company initiates to terminate the employment contract with an employee.

The dismissal by the company may be the result of the following:

1. an employee's low work performance
2. improper behaviour, attitude and misconduct
3. low integrity
4. material discrepancies in the information provided during the time of the appointment.
5. any other reason hampering the company's goals

In any of the above-mentioned cases, the company has the right to enforce separation either with immediate effect without any prior notice or by providing a 1-month notice period to the employee that he/she will have to serve with full sincerity with the company.

Notice Period

After the day of Resignation approval or Dismissal, an employee has to serve his/her due notice period.

The duration of the notice period in case of a Resignation shall be 2 months. Depending upon the work that the employee is expected to complete and the discussions that carry on between the employee and her/his Manager, the notice period can be reduced. It is expected that the separating employee shall complete his/ her work and commitments before the relieving date. The employee while serving her/his notice period is not allowed to take any leaves.

In case the employee leaves the company before completing her/his notice period, the company will have full right to halt/abort the separation process.

Notice Period Buyout Option

If an employee wishes to terminate their contract immediately without serving the notice period—for example, due to joining another organization or personal reasons—they may opt for a notice period buyout, subject to manager and HR approval. The buyout is applicable only if the employee's role and work allow an early exit without disrupting business operations. In such cases, the employee shall compensate the company with an amount equivalent to the salary for the unserved notice period.

Relieving Formalities

All the benefits will discontinue from the date of resignation or the last day.

The PF account of the employee with the company will be laid off. If there is any third-party PF, it will stay the same.

Asset Handover

At the beginning of every employment contract, the employees who have been provisioned with company assets sign an Asset Handover Agreement which states that upon resignation/dismissal, the employee has to hand over all the company assets assigned to them.

Before the last day of the notice period, the employee is expected to submit all of the company's assets including but not limited to any technological gadgets, vehicle, identity card, etc. Any conduct contrary to this rule may halt/abort your separation process.

To improve employee satisfaction, the human resource team may hold an exit interview. The employees are requested to co-operate and be sincere about the same.

Full & Final Settlement

Last month's salary of the outgoing Employee will be paid along with the Full and Final Settlement of all dues within 45 days after her/his exit.

The net amount of dues will be paid to the employee after adjusting deductions and recoveries as applicable.

Upon successful fulfilment of the separation process, the employee along with her/his salary and dues will be issued the Relieving Letter and Experience Letter.
